

PM WORLD TODAY – JORDAN – SEPTEMBER 2009

Project Management Update from Jordan

By Ammar Mango

International Correspondent for PMForum & PM World Today

Amman, Jordan

Method Launches first of its kind survey of Project Management for Universities worldwide

Method, a leading project management training and consulting firm in the Middle East region, is launching a first of its kind project management survey, targeting project management practices at universities worldwide.

This survey aims at shedding more light on the state of project management at universities and colleges around the world. It will attempt to answer questions such as:

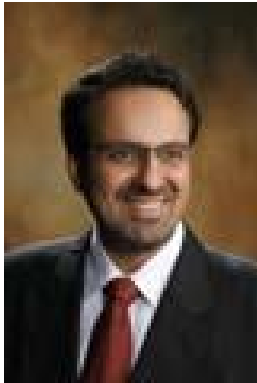

- What are the project management practices at universities?
- What are the areas for improvement?
- What are the challenges?
- What are the next steps towards higher organizational maturity in project management for universities?

Method is planning to send over 100 invitations to universities from around the globe to participate in the survey. Only one entry will be admitted from each university campus by a university representative.

Every university or college that participates in this survey will receive a complementary report of its results, which will help you benchmark current project management practices with peers worldwide.

All information entered into the survey is processed anonymously, without connection to a specific name or organization. The results will not mention any school or organization by name.

The survey is by invitation only. Method will be sending invitations to universities during the first week of September. If you are part of a university system and interested to participate in the survey, please send an email to Ammar Mango; amango@methodcorp.com and include in the subject field “Interest in participating in Universities project management survey.”

About the Author:Ammar Mango*Author*

Ammar W. Mango, PMP, CSSBB, is principal consultant for Method Corporation, a project management consulting, product and services company based in Amman, Jordan. He is also an International Correspondent for PMForum and PM World Today in Jordan. With over seventeen years of global experience in Project Management & Leadership consulting and training, he is considered an international expert on the subjects and enjoys a superb reputation as an inspirational trainer and consultant. He holds a bachelor's degree from Jordan University and a Master's Degree in Construction Engineering and Management from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, USA. He has been certified as a Project Management Professional (PMP) by the Project Management Institute (PMI) since 1991, and as a Six Sigma Black Belt by the American Society for Quality. He served as Vice President, Education, PMI Great Lakes Chapter in 1993, and is the founder and currently an active member of the PMI Jordanian Chapter. Additional information can be found at <http://www.pmforum.org/pm%20forum%20team/index.htm#5>. Ammar can be contacted at amanqo@methodcorp.com.